2013 General Election Results Certified

(Columbus) The Franklin County Board of Elections certified results of the Nov. 5 general election this afternoon. The numbers show a turnout of 19.78 percent with 156,561 voting out of 791,386 registered.

The results confirm that one recount is necessary and indicate a second is probable for a contest shared with Licking County.

A recount for Truro Township Trustee involving only Franklin County precincts will take place Wednesday, Dec. 4 at 9:00 a.m. Candidates Dennis Nicodemus and Barb Strussion are separated by less than one half percent of one percent of the vote-the margin for mandatory recounts in Ohio.

A second recount is likely in a race for Reynoldsburg School Board that involves results from Licking County. Candidates Ryan Brzezinski and Andrew Swope are separated by less than a half percent of the vote from Franklin County. Additional votes from Licking County will be certified there later today and added to the Franklin County total to determine if a recount for school board is necessary.
